“ For as long as I can remember, my Uncle John and Aunt Stephanie have been a huge part of my life. When my mom passed away, his sister.. he was there for me always. He encouraged me to accomplish things that I was scared of, pushed me to do things that I didnt want to, and took on a role that I needed at that time. I have so many memories with him. My favorite one is after one of his heart surgeries, he was in a nursing home and asked me to come up (well he had Alex call me) and when I got there, he would send me to get all this junk he knew he wasnt supposed to have. I said to him, if you get caught, you cannot tell them it was me. He whispered okay, with a very serious look on his face. 30 mins later, a nurse caught him with a iced coffee and when she asked where he got it, he pointed at me, and started laughing and almost choked.

He was so funny! He would light up the room with his sense of humor. I'm going to miss everything about him, but most importantly I'll miss our talks.
