“ I was so blessed to have you as a part of my family. I will always remember your kindness and empathy for everyone you met. I remember when you sat and talked with Amelia at the holidays and helped her get over her fear of ghosts. My heart aches that you have moved on but we know there is a piece of you with us always as long as we love and remember you. Sisters forever

“ Loved her faceBook page, she promoted metal music & the metal scene. I grew to like her persona. I never knew she did ghosthunting. Celebrate her life of 32yrs like I still remember my lil' bro of 16 before cancer took him. Our loved ones live on and are still with us. always, Samuel “ Manda was, in few words, one of my best friends. In many words, I could write a novel. In the short time we've known each other, our relationship grew and molded together so quickly. I first met her on her first heavy metal promotion page on facebook and there was an instant connection. We quickly began our tight friendship. Almost after a week of knowing each other, we were already calling each other bro/sis. Our mutual love of metal grew into a mutual love of each other. She was truly a one-of-a-kind spirit and even now, her strong spirit carries on in all who knew her. I know she will be with me (and all of us) forever and she speaks to me through (what else) music. I await the day we can finally meet and walk together on the perennial quest. My highest of condolences to the whole Pendleton clan.

“ We've been friends since we were 14. Even though we floated in and out of each others lives it was always like a minute hadn't even passed since we last spoke. We always shared such a connection. I know you're gone, but I can still feel you here. You were just too bright for this lifetime. How can I put into words how special you are to me? Until we meet again my friend. I'll miss you always
