“ Andrea, I just keep thinking of the last place I saw and spoke to you. It was here in the office where you worked standing by the copier. I remember the last time I heard your voice. Nettie and I called you to get a password onto your computer on Friday and you wanted to know exactly who was going to be working on your computer. I remember looking at Nettie and saying you sounded fine to me. You will be missed. It was truly a honor to know you and to be able to work with you over the past six years. My God bless you and welcome you home.
