“ Oh so many to even pick one, but I remember the time we went camping, all of us.....your mom and dad were very brave.....I stepped on a bumble bee and Mr Rehe had to take me to the hospital for an allergic reaction and get a shot in the butt.....but he was my hero and saved the camping trip.....always my hero.....I have always said he was the best guy I know.....the best dad, the best husband, the best friend.....May he rest in peace with mom, now, and may he forever remain alive in our hearts.....I love you, Mr.Rehe.....I am one of your biggest fans.....what a special man.....He will be truly missed.....so hard to say goodbye.....

*Love to all
deepest sympathies,

*Ty Lori....what a great memory....one his favorites. I would tell the story often to his caregivers and he would always laugh. Said "boy was I out numbered. I had to carry them all to the truck because their mom sent them camping in new school shoes and it was pouring down rain. I still remember the movie attendants eyes when I ordered seven pops and seven popcorns". He always looked forward to your Christmas eve visits. Thank you all for being such a big part of our lives. Sisters forever...
Love ya*
