“ Lou and I were best friends in Junior High, playing football, basketball, baseball. Attending the Saturday night dances. Being jumped by a couple of thugs from Monessen. Playing euchre in his basement or ping pong in mine. Our topographical map for 7th grade history class, which was a total flop.

There are a million stories I could tell about Lou. But he could tell them far better than me and often did so. I will tell a few next week at his funeral. A great story-teller and an even greater guy. Loved my time with him talking sports, his AF days, his business ventures and most important his family. Love that guy and will miss him much.
