“ We offer our condolences to Roy’s family. I met Roy at a camp at Penn State while we were in high school. That lead to a close life long friendship that included being college room mates and fraternity brothers, playing football, and hunting together. We often spoke of family, high school and Steelers football, hunting, and our college years right up through his last months. Each year he would call me on my birthday. A true and loyal friend who I will miss. Tim Brush

“ After searching for months to find the best person to build our home, we met Roy Horrell in 1989. He invited us to see his work, and we were blown away! His extraordinary talent was unmatched. He had a quiet, humble spirit despite being an accomplished artist. Roy stopped by our home recently to say hello, and we had the opportunity to thank him once again. We are deeply saddened to learn of his death. He takes with him a lifetime of knowledge, a self-made entrepreneur who has touched many lives. His legacy will live on with his family and the many homes he built that will pass down to new generations. May his family find comfort in the risen Christ who has defeated death.
